

in a nutshell

It's safe to say that nobody likes having poor eyesight – but the good news is that these days nobody has to. Thanks to the amazing advances in technology that are available at Advanced Vision Care, there really is no need to let a pair of glasses or contact lenses get in the way of looking your absolute best or enjoying a sporty lifestyle any longer.

Our procedures

Located in London's prestigious Harley Street, AVC leads the field in innovative vision correction treatments that can help people with even the most complex prescriptions. Because we are independent we have no financial interest in using a particular brand of laser or lens, which means we only recommend the treatment that is 100% right for you. This is not the case with all clinics: our treatment plans are truly bespoke, based on a thorough assessment of your eyes by a surgeon at your consultation – there's no one-size-fits-all approach at AVC.

AVC offers the most sophisticated laser procedures including Advanced Wavefront Intralase blade-free LASIK, LASEK and the revolutionary Supracor, which can correct both long and short sight. For patients who are not suitable for laser, we offer a range of equally effective non-laser alternative treatments including clear lens exchange, implantable contact lenses, cataract surgery and treatment for keratoconus. All procedures are performed with anaesthetic drops for a pain-free experience, fast healing time and superior visual outcomes.

Professor Martin Filipec, MD, CSC

one of the few surgeons to have a Fellowship in Corneal and Refractive Surgery, an achievement that demonstrates the level of his expertise, knowledge and dedication to his work. Every member of AVC's surgical and clinical teams provides a level of professionalism and experience in refractive surgery that is second to none and sets a standard that is unrivalled by other clinics. You really couldn't be in safer hands.

Our surgeons

One of the main reasons why AVC attracts patients from all over the world is the reputation of our surgeons. Their proven success rates and expertise as leaders in their field, combined with the very latest technology, provides patients with outstanding results that literally transform their lives.

With over 25 years' experience as a refractive surgeon, AVC's Medical Director Mr CT Pillai has been at the forefront of the development and innovation in vision correction treatment. He is

Quality of care

We want all our patients to enjoy their experience with us – after all, it's a life-changing event – so we make sure we go the extra mile with superb standards of care and attention to detail to make you feel relaxed and confident. Our unique partnership with carefully selected highly experienced optometrist practices all over the UK means that patients can access all the advice and aftercare they need close to home, only travelling to London once for their procedure. And to make that visit as relaxed and stress-free as possible, we even provide free 4★ hotel accommodation for patients travelling from outside London. We are also the only clinic in the UK to have a transparent laser operating theatre that allows patients to bring a companion along to watch their surgery taking place through the glass – it's the closest you can get to having someone there to hold your hand.

For something as precious as your eyesight you should never compromise on quality for the sake of saving money. As you would expect for something that requires such exceptional skill and expertise, vision correction treatment is a considerable financial commitment, but it's an investment that lasts a lifetime and is worth every penny. Even though our treatments surpass the standard you would expect from a Harley Street clinic, our prices remain affordable, fair and transparent with no hidden extras, ever. We also offer a range of payment plans and 0% finance deals so there's no need to wait.

Our success

Don't just take our word for it though – we have a long and growing list of patients who want to tell others how thankful they were that they chose AVC for their vision correction treatment:

"I don't give praise lightly, but I wholeheartedly recommend AVC to anyone wanting a personal, tailor-made service for improving his or her vision. And the bonus? AVC was less expensive than the other clinics I contacted," said a recent patient who had clear lens exchange treatment.

We are also proud to have been chosen by many celebrities, medical professionals and people from around the world who have travelled to the UK specially to have treatment with us.

"The quality of care is first rate, Mr Pillai's experience is profound and his knowledge of his field is highly reassuring. I wish I'd had the procedure years ago, but I am very happy that I waited for the perfect surgeon and team to do it. To everyone at AVC - thank you for treating my eyesight as personally as I do." Hari Dhillon, Actor (Holby City)

"Mr Pillai is a wonderful surgeon. He made me feel totally reassured about him, his skill and what was going to happen. It's the best investment I've ever made." Amanda Mealing, Actress (Strike Back and Holby City)
